President Raymond Makes His Formal Report of Board of Health's Investigation.

Editor Advertiser: Dear Sir:-I enclose a report of the president of the Board of Health on the sonable precautions as to cally examiresult of the investigations of a supposed case of bubonic plague.

I deem it in the public interest that this report be published. Sincerely yours,

SANFORD B. DOLE.

should have been raked into prominence. A company of the National Guard was on duty at that time for about two days and the expense was considered small. Another large bill of expense was incurred during the plague visitation. At the time no one thought of questioning the amount. It was a case in which extraodinary chances were being taken by the volunteers, and the utmost diligence and promptness was required, both by the necessities of the moment and by popular clamor. At times, notably immediately before and after the burning of Chinatown, extraordinary expenditures were necessary,

As for the expenditures for dress uniforms, etc., it is purely a custom of States or Territories. In most of the States the entire equipment is paid for by the State; In some of them, I believe, in Honolulu devolves upon the purses of staff officers. in some of them, I believe, it is not, but here the same opportunities for de- in Hawaii the custom has always been for the Government to supply uniforms, u it is possessing an unob-line and staff. An extraordinary expense the shoramic marine view of the was occasioned at this particular period was occasioned at the Hawaiian to was occasioned at this particular to by the change from the Hawaiian to by the business center, its transit the American military system, which the on the line of the proposed called for additional uniforms for the line, and for new uniforms for the staff. As for the "gold helmets," etc., referred to, they are duplicates of those used by the Governor's staff and regiment heads in every State and Territory of the Union. Some years ago this paraphernalia was supplied by the central Government, but, although the uniformity is kept up, such is no longer the case, and each State has now to look out for the proper equipment of its officers in times of peace. There has been no waste of military money. None has gone to other than military uses, save, perhaps, the item for guards on the Capitol grounds. Following the disbandment of the regulars on September 1, 1898, it was thought necessary to have a guard on the grounds at night to protect the Treasury and other property. This duty should have fallen to the police, but it was found that the force of that Department was insufficient and that the appropriation bill would not stand it. It was then decided to supply the guards from the military until the Legislature had convened and made proper provision for the guarding of the Capitol and court house.

the Moililli Church with the aid of other ladles of Kawaihao, had charge of the decorations for the Baster services. Following is a part of the sermon preached, by Rev. W. D. Westervelt in Kawaiahao Church in the evening Easter service.

"Go your way; make it as sure as you The dead body of Christ was in can." the hands of his enemies. They had failed to prove that he had ever spoken falsely, while He was on trial before them. Could they compel His lips, marble like in death, to refrain from still speaking the truth? Was it possible for them to keep Him from rising again on the third day? They asked Pilate to keep the door of that tomb closed. He turned the responsibility back upon them. "Make it as sure as you can." They went out to the grave in the garden to do what they could. As far as was in their power they would prove that He was still in the grave on the third day.

It is impossible to imprison truth and make it stay behind the bars when its appointed time has come. God's hand behind all truth and will push it out to do its work. It is no wonder that Galileo, telescope inventor and star student, found it beyond the power of Rome to put in fetters the astronomical truths which were shining in the heavens, for Keppler and himself. When Wickliffe's translations of the English Bible were burned it seemed as if truth had been buried; but Tyndale and Coverdale could not help being the glad messengers of God to roll away the stone for the uninterrupted course of Bible influence through the following centuries. The time comes to individuals and communities and nations when the grave must open to set free the right and truth which have been enclosed many years. Let no human hands make fast the door. The early Christians welcomed the open door of the tomb, with such gladness that they made Sunday a perpetual memorial of the Resurrection of Christ. Their supreme happiness seemed to be involved in their worship of a "living" Redeemer. They remembered the "passover" season with the Crucifixion and the Resurrection from almost apostolic

When Christianity came and melted away their old life, frozen by sin and
